

Program for (hybrid) workshop on “Re-examining peripheral structures: theoretical and empirical perspectives on linguistic ‘(un)productivity’”

Research School of Humanities and Arts, The Australian National University (ANU)

18 November 2022

Canberra time	Speaker	Topic
9:00-9:30	Manuel Delicado and Zhengdao Ye (ANU)	Acknowledgement of Country; Opening remarks
9:30-10:00	Emily Manetta (University of Vermont)	A comparative view of marginal syntactic structure in Indic
10:00-10:30	Manuel Delicado Cantero (ANU)	Resituating marginal syntactic constructions in the history of Spanish
10:30-11:00	Morning Tea
11:00-11:30	Cathryn Donohue (The Hong Kong Polytechnic University)	On the productivity of differential object marking in Nubri
11:30-12:00	Mengistu Amberber (University of New South Wales)	On irregular verb stems in Amharic
12:00-2:00	Lunch (catered on site)
2:00-2:30	Charbel El-Khaissi (ANU)	Reconstructing the construct: Syntactic (Un)productivity in Semitic Construct State Nominals
2:30-3:00	Janet Davey and Zhengdao Ye (ANU)	"When one corner of a room is mentioned, you infer the other three". Examining the productivity of chengyu structures in Chinese: semantic considerations
3:00-3:30	Avery Andrews (ANU)	On getting up people's noses: the semantics of an idiom in LFG+glue
3:30-5:30	Roundtable discussion & refreshments
5:30-6:00	Break
6:00-6:30	James Gray (ANU)	Mismatches in Pintupi-Luritja focus particle placement."
6:30-7:00	Robert Mailhammer (Western Sydney University)	Productivity of morphological patterns in the Iwaidjan languages